Andrew Decker Hunter, 93, of Henryville, died at home Sept. 25, 2017. Born April 18, 1924, in Brooklyn, New York, son of William Theodore Hunter and Alice Decker Hunter, he was a graduate of Deerfield Academy, Williams College and Harvard Business School. He enlisted in the U.S. Army after turning 18 and served until honorably discharged at the end of World War II. His professional career in the metals industry included serving as president of Hussey Metals in Leetsdale. Having vacationed at his family's farm in the Poconos since infancy, he moved to Henryville in 1971. He later worked in real estate, founding Andrew Hunter Real Estate in Tannersville. He had many passions over his lifetime, including golf, crossword puzzles, trout fishing, his beloved Lake Swiftwater Club community of family and friends, and most of all Nancy, his wife of 72 years. In addition to his wife, he is survived by daughters, Alice (Mark McKenna) and Nancy (Bill Sanderson); son, James (Gina Brandt); daughter-in-law, Patricia; 10 grandchildren; a great-granddaughter; and many nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by four older siblings, Ruth, David, Marian and Elizabeth; and sons, Andrew and William. He will be long remembered for his gentle wit, unfailing courtesy and deep love of family. He will be keenly missed.
